14 Borch Street
Ketchikan, AK 99901
907-225-9605

The Southern Southeast Regional Aquaculture Association (SSRAA) has an opening for 1 Temporary Fish Culturist at the Neets Bay Hatchery. The position has an approximate start date of January 5 2023 and ends at the end of October.

The Neets Bay Hatchery is a large, remote, three species salmon hatchery located approximately 30 air miles north of Ketchikan, Alaska. There are approximately 145 million Chum, 3.2 million Coho, and 300,000 Chinook salmon cultured at the Neets Bay facility.

Temporary Fish Culturists will perform all duties associated with saltwater/freshwater rearing, all aspects of salmon egg incubation, and Chum Salmon spawning. Other duties will include site cleanup and maintenance. Applicants must be capable of lifting 50lbs repeatedly and be tolerant of foul weather.

The position requires living on site in a furnished bunkhouse with private bedroom. Provided benefits include but are not limited to: weekly mail and supply flights, satellite internet, satellite tv, and groceries.

Recreational opportunities include hiking, boating, and fishing as time allows.

Starting pay is $14.35/hr or greater depending on experience. SSRAA is an equal opportunity employer. Applicants may either send or email a cover letter and resume to the addresses provided below.
